

SMITHSONIAN REGENTS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

Million-Dollar Freer Art Building to Be Finished in Two Years.

The seventy-first annual meeting of the board of regents of the Smithsonian Institution was held yesterday, presided over by Chief Justice White, of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Secretary Charles D. Walcott announced that the million-dollar building donated to the institution by Charles L. Freer to house his collection of American and Oriental art, will be completed within two years.

Another announcement by Dr. Walcott was that the work of the Langley aerodynamical laboratory did not cease with the death of Dr. Langley, and that much work is going on under direction of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

In conjunction with the Weather Bureau, the Langley laboratory is mapping the atmosphere over the whole United States and adjoining areas to a height of 30,000 feet.

Total resources of the Smithsonian Institution are $1,048,134.23. The total income last year was $107,623.46.

A bequest by the late artist, Henry W. Ranger, was acknowledged. It gives the National Gallery of Art opportunity to select and purchase such paintings of deceased American artists as may be deemed desirable, the selected paintings being paid for from the Ranger fund.

At the meeting were Vice President Marshall, Senators Lodge, of Massachusetts, and Hollis, of New Hampshire; Representative Roberts, of Massachusetts; Lloyd, of Missouri; Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, and John B. Henderson, Jr., of Washington, and Charles F. Choate, Jr., of Boston.

The resignation of Dr. Andrew D. White, of Ithaca, N. Y., was presented and accepted, and a resolution was adopted by the board in appreciation of his valued service of nearly thirty years.

LITTLE GIRL WANTS A TYPEWRITER FOR XMAS

"I want a typewriter for Christmas so I can earn money when I grow up."

This is the wish of one little girl in Washington.

Calls of this kind are constantly reaching the Associated Charities. Lists of "Christmas opportunities" will be printed occasionally. A little help would save many families from being broken up this year.

The confidential exchange will direct relief work so that no one family will receive several dinners while another family gets none.
